THE South-Carolina Gazette.

Containing the freſheſt Advices Foreign and Domeſtick.

From THURSDAY July 2, to THURSDAY July 9, 1741.

Extract of a Letter from the Hague.

AS it's perceiv'd that great Difficulties will attend the Placing the Grand Duke of Tuſcany upon the Imperial Throne, Expedients are ſought after in order to cauſe him at leaſt to draw ſome Advantage from the preſent Situation of Affairs; which 'tis thought he cannot ſo effectually do as by accommodating Matters with the Elector of Saxony, King of Poland, who now ſeems to be the moſt likely Prince to attain to the Imperial Dignity, ſhould even France take ever ſo much Pains for the Elector of Bavaria. The new Emperor would probably guaranty the entire Poſſeſſion of the Domintons of the Houſe of Auſtria, and would conſent that the Archdutcheſs ſhould yield up the Sovereignty thereof to the Grand Duke of Tuſcany. But it's apprehended that France will not approve of this Project. Tho' this Court ſays Nothing, it is thought to be ſecretly buſy. The Queen of Hungary, and the Grand Duke her Conſort, ſeem willing to make their Court to it; which has for ſome Time paſt manifeſtly appear'd in the Behaviour of Meſſ. de Richecourt and Halloy, who now attend much more aſſiduouſly upon the Marquis de Fenelon than they did ſome Time ſince, and communicate to him every Order they receive from Vienna and every Step that they thereupon take.

Seeing the moſt conſiderable Powers who are Guarantees of the Pragmatick Sanction make no Haſte to arm againſt the King of Pruſſia, the States General think themſelves ſufficiently excus'd from doing any Thing more than employing their good Offices therein, and are determin'd only to make uſe of Arms upon the laſt Extremity. In order to ſcreen themſelves from the Reſentment of a too enterprizing Neighbour, great Pains are taken to accompliſh a new Treaty of Alliance and ſtrict Friendſhip with Great-Britain, whereby the two Powers are mutually to guaranty to each other their reſpective Dominions in the Situation they are now in. It's aſſured that this Treaty is far advanced.

Another Extract of a Letter from the Hague.

AS the Warlike Preparations of the Britiſh Court are now greater and more important that the two preceding Years, it's apprehended by the Members of the Government, that the War between that Nation and Spain will extend itſelf further than it did laſt Year, and that France will be obliged to take part in it, having by her Correſpondence and Alliances with divers Courts, put herſelf in a Condition of taking off the Maſk when People think leaſt of it, and of making Head againſt all Oppoſers, having Troops in Abundance, more Men of War than heretofore, her Finances in tolerable Order, and a good Set of Generals. She however makes a Merit of her Squadron in America not having taken any inſulting Step there; and at the ſame Time inſinuates, the real Motive of ſending it thither was only to attempt to bring the Treaſure of the Galleons into Europe, which now Spain is in the utmoſt Want of.

Prague, April 2. The Army under the Velt Marſhal de Neuperg march'd from Olmutz the 26th ult. but the Fall of Snow has made the Roads ſo unpaſſable for the Artillery, that it was hardly poſſible for the Army to be at the Place where they intend to venture a Battle with the Pruſſians, before Yeſterday. The Enemy's Army conſiſts of 30,000 Men. The Count de Neuperg has under him 26,000 Men of regular Forces beſides Militia. General Lentulus is to advance with a good Body on the other ſide of Glatz: At the ſame Time 6000 Hungarians will arrive from Jablunka, which Troops will thereby form a Triangle to encloſe the Pruſſians. 'Tis concluded, that after the firſt Fire, the Auſtrian Cavalry conſiſting of 12,000, all pick'd Men, are to fall upon the Enemy, and 'tis not doubted but they will ſoon put them to the Rout, becauſe the Pruſſian Cavalry, which conſiſts but of 4000 Men, will not be able to ſtand the Shock of Ours.

Ratisbon, April 3. The Affair of the Electoral Vote of Bohemia, which ſome thought would be ſpeedily amicably adjuſted, ſtill ſeems to meet with great Obſtables from ſeveral of the Electoral Courts, which oppoſe the Queen of Hungary's transferring that Vote to the Grand Duke. It was propos'd to let the States of Bohemia ſend their Deputies to the Dyet of Franckfort; but this Expedient will not go down with the oppoſing Electors, who maintain that thoſe States have no more Right to do it than the Chapters of the Eccleſiaſtical Electors have, who during the Vacancy of the See cannot exerciſe the Electoral Vote. It is reported that ſome of the Electors are for ſuſpending the Vote of Bohemia for this Time. If ſo, Germany will ſtand a fair Chance to have no Emperor.

Berlin, April 4. The King has reſolv'd to ſend hither the Perſons concerned in the Conſpiracy againſt him in Sileſia; and it is even ſaid that the Foreign Miniſters will be invited to be preſent at their Examination.

Letters from Otmachow adviſe, that his Pruſſian Majeſty has cauſed Cardinal Sintzendorf to be ſeized and put under Arreſt, for holding Correſpondence with and giving Intelligence to the Auſtrian Officers at Neiſs, and other Places. We expect to learn by the next Advices that two Bodies of Pruſſian Troops have laid Siege to the Towns of Neiſs and Brieg.

Hague, April 7. On Wedneſday laſt the Affair of the ſecond Augmentation of Ten Thouſand Men was reſumed, and finally concluded by the States General.

Paris, April 12. Some Letters from Sileſia ſay, that Eight Thouſand Pruſſians have opened the Siege of Neiſs, and that a Detachment is alſo marched towards Brieg.

Thoſe from Conſtantinople by Way of Venice ſay, the Turks having reſolved to ſend 40,000 Horſe and Foot to Servia and the Neighbourhood of Belgrade, and ſome of the foreign Miniſters having repreſented that it might give Umbrage, they were told that the Porte was ſtill reſolved to keep Peace, but the preſent Situation of Affairs wou'd not permit them to leave the Frontiers naked.

LONDON, April 2.

Extract of a Letter from Capt. Blomart, late Commander of the Ship John, dated Genoa, March 11, O.S.

ON the 3d of March, about Nine in the Evening, we sail'd from Genoa, and next Morning at Day-break we found several Settees near us, within Eight Miles of Genoa, and one coming near half Gun-shot hoisted Genoese Colours, and run out his Guns: As soon as we perceived it we began to play our Stern-Chace Guns, but to our Misfortune it fell flat calm. He rowing on our Quarters, and keeping a continual Fire, brought our Fore and Mizen-Yard down: We carried away the Head of his Fore-Mast and Fore-Yard, and plac'd him several Shot in his Bow, that rak'd him fore and aft. At last he came on Board, and with a great Number of his People with their Powder-Flasks, &c. we had a most bloody Engagement; till pouring in so many Hands with their Arms, we were obliged to surrender. Our Stern and Quarters are as full of small Shot as possibly they can stick, and the Poop Lanthorn is like a Cullander The Privateer had 18 Nine and Twelve Pounders, 26 Swivel Guns, and 150 Men; yet I verily believe if it had not been our Misfortune to be becalm'd, we should have had the best. We had only one Man kill'd and eight wounded; and the Privateer, I believe, must have a great Number, but they keep them private.

It is said Capt. Blomart's Cargo of Tin, &c. he was going with to Leghorn, amounted to about 5000 l. Value.

The Spaniards immediately carried him back to Genoa.

The Privateer had 18 Carriage and 26 Swivel Guns, and 150 Men. The John had 18 Guns and 35 Men, who bravely did their Duty, but on the second Boarding were unable to resist so great a Number.

On Tuesday last came Advice, that the Polly, Capt. Parker, bound from Newfoundland to Oporto, was lately taken off Viana, by a Spanish Privateer, who carried her into Bayonne.

We also hear, that a Portugueze Brigantine, which was laden with Woollen Goods in the River Thames, and bound to Lizbon, was also taken and carried into Bayonne by a Spanish Cruizer.

CHARLES-TOWN, July 9.

The People who have lately made their Escape from St Augustine, say, that the Spaniards there use all their Prisoners most barbarously, being obliged to work all Day on the Fortifications with little or no Sustenance.

On Sunday Morning last sail'd on a Cruise, the Sloop Speedwell (one of the Boston Privateers) commanded by Capt. John Rouse

We hear that Capt. Rouse is to cruise along our Coast to St. Augustine, in order (if possible) to intercept some of their Privateers, or re-take such of their Prizes as they may yet find in there.

The ———, Capt. Harrison, bound from London for North Carolina, is safe arrived here.

A Schooner arrived here last Week from Winyaw, the Commander of which says, that on Friday the 26th past he was chas'd by a Sloop of about 90 Tuns, with 14 Carriage Guns, but got clear by running into Spencer's Inlet; he also says, that she is a very dull Sailor, and shew'd but few Hands upon Deck.

On Wednesday last his Majesty's Ship the Phœnix, Capt. Charles Fanshaw, return'd from his Cruise in order to take under Convoy such Vessels as were ready to sail, and on Monday Morning set sail again with 13 Sail of Merchant Ships.

On Saturday last the Commons House of Assembly of this Province, adjourn'd to the First Tuesday in December next.

Capt. Wickam, who is just arrived here from New York and Rhode Island, informs us, that several Spanish Privateers infested the Coasts of New York, Boston and Rhode Island; That at Rhode Island the Government's Sloop was fitting out for a Cruise; And that from New York the Government had sent out two stout Privateers, each mann'd with 100 brave Seamen, who are allow'd Monthly Wages, besides the Prizes the shall take
